THANKSGIVING

PROCLAMATION.

Observe Thursday, the 29th Day of November, 1906.

That the people of Kentucky may properly observe our country's most hallowed custom, I hereby appoint in accordance with the action of the President of the United States that this State observe Thursday, November 29, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer throughout the Commonwealth. On that day all business should be suspended; the eager pursuit for wealth should cease; the restless struggle for profit and gain should give place to quiet and peace, while a grateful people in their rural places of worship shall give thanks to a generous and merciful God, who has so richly blessed us.

Our people have prospered beyond all precedent, our nation in a little over a century has sprung into a position of power and might beyond the boldest dreams of its founders and today commands the admiration and respect of the entire world. In material wealth we are without an equal. Nature has lavished upon us her choicest bounties. The sunshine of peace and contentment sheds its genial light upon a happy land. To deserve and retain the blessings, due recognition should be given to the divine source from which they come. In place of boasting of our greatness, let us humbly praise and thank Him to whom we owe all. The strength and welfare of our Republic, the endurance of its splendid institutions and the progress of our Christian civilization, must depend upon the spirit with which our people can observe the

KENTUCKY AT JAMESTOWN.

Commission Begins Work for Representation at the Big Exposition.

With the purpose of providing for the proper representation of the state at the Jamestown Exposition, to be held in Norfolk, Va., April 26 to November 30th 1907, the Kentucky Jamestown Exposition Commission has been organized and incorporated.

Headquarters have been opened in the Commercial building, Louisville, and a campaign of exploitation has commenced. It is the intention of the commission to make the representation typical of the entire State and a replica of the Ft. of Boonesboro has been agreed upon as the Kentucky building. Funds for the erection of the building and the collection and installation of exhibits will be raised by popular subscription and the sum of $40,000 will be required for the purpose.

The commission is composed of the following members: J. Stoddard Johnston, Louisville, President; John B. Atkinson, Earlington, Vice President and Director of Finance; Charles E. Hoge, Frankfort, Director of State Building Construction; Malcolm H. H. Crump, Bowling Green, Director of Forestry Exhibits; Jas. M. Benton, Winchester, Director of Exhibits of Manufacturers; Honorary Commissioners: Hubert Vreeland, Frankfort, Director of Agricultural and Horticultural Exhibits; J. H. Fuqua, Frankfort, Director of Educational Exhibits; Charles J. Norwood, Lexington, Director of Mineral Exhibits; William Lindsay, Frankfort, Director of Historical Exhibits. Logan C. Murray, Louisville, is Treasurer, and C. C. Ousley, Secretary. The latter is in charge of the Commission's headquarters.

Subscription books are now open. Any one wishing to contribute should not wait for personal solicitation but may send check, money order or currency direct to Logan C. Murray, Treasurer, American National Bank, Louisville.

To Our Subscribers.

We are not responsible for the delivery of our papers throughout the country. If we fail to deliver any papers at the Mt. Sterling Post Office, said failure is unintentional on our part. We, like all men, are liable to accidents. If a subscriber receives even one copy having his or her name printed on it this is evidence that the name is on our mailing list. We regret that a single paper is mislaid. We hope that no subscriber who owes us will be so thoughtless as to ask his postmaster to inform us that his paper is "refused," "not wanted." Same will please notify us of desire to discontinue and also send amount due, and we will with pleasure discontinue.

For a man to order a paper and receive same for any length of time and then try to have it stopped without paying dues, subject that man to the suspicion that he is either careless or wishes to violate his promise and obligations. We will cheerfully help you out of your difficulty, and will apologize and make amends if we are at fault.

Strange Playmates.

A pretty story has been told me of a small blue dove, or percher more properly a pigeon, owned by Mr. J. Clifford, of Bath, Me. (that has escaped the claws of the neighborhood cats and prowling hawks, and is living well and hearty at the ripe old age of five years or rather was when the incident was related. He was certainly quite remarkable bird in his way.

When the old family cat has her brood of little ones every spring he is delighted and seems to think they are under his special care, and will hover around them, talking to them in a low, cooing tone.

When the old cat is away he will work diligently, carrying straws in his beak and spreading across them, and woe to the hand that tries to take a kitten from the nest when he has charge. He will peck and strike with his wings anyone who comes near. He is not blest with that gentle character and disposition of his race, and would rather fight than not, and makes a good protector; but after the kittens get large enough to play they have fine times together.

The kittens seem to think he is a playmate for them and will roll together, a strange mixture of fur and feathers. But sometimes he does not agree to such rough usage, and he flies off after giving a sly pinch to the kittens' tails. He and the family cats are on the best of terms and all eat from the same dish.—G. B. Griffith.

Burley Tobacco Society Meeting.

By the authority vested in me as Chairman of the initial meeting of the Burley Tobacco Society, by the constitution of said society (Art. VII, Sec. 1) and in accordance with its provision, I hereby call the first meeting of the members of the society for the purpose of electing precinct representatives on the County Boards. All members who have pledged their tobacco to the society are instructed to meet at the usual place of voting in their respective precincts at 2 o'clock, Friday, November 30th, and to select their representative on the County Board. Further, the representatives so selected are instructed to meet in their respective county seats at 2 o'clock, Saturday, December 1st, and select their representatives on the District Board. And furthermore, the members of the District Board thus elected are instructed to meet at 2 o'clock in the office of the society at Winchester, Kentucky, on December 3rd, to organize as the District Board, and to select the General Manager, and to take charge of the affairs of the society.

The precinct meetings shall be organized by the selection of a temporary chairman and secretary, and the meeting shall proceed at once to the election of a representative on the County Board, whose election to the County Board shall be certified by the temporary secretary.

The County Board shall be organized by the selection of a temporary chairman and secretary, and shall proceed at once to the election of permanent county chairman and a permanent secretary. The secretary shall certify the election of the chairman, which certificate shall constitute his credentials as member of the District Board.

Done this 20th day of November, 1906, at Winchester, Ky.

It is proposed to build a great Baptist University at Louisville with an endowment of $1,000,000, which will in time equal the Baptist institution at Chicago. Dr. A. G. Giffill of Williamsburg several months ago gave $100,000 to the fund. At a meeting in Louisville last week Theodore Harris, president of the Louisville National Banking Co., gave $100,000, making one-fifth of the total amount asked given by two individuals.

A Sad Death.

A True Account

A fashionable lady attended revival meetings at the Morgan-Street Church, Chicago. Deep conviction settled on her soul.

She wept and said she would be glad to find peace, but was not ready to give up the pleasures of the world. To drown her convictions she absented herself from the house of God. Time hurried on and soon she was on her death bed.

Realizing her condition she sent for a friend who had attended the meetings with her and who had listened to the spiritual pleadings and found the joy of pardoning love. This friend hurried to the bedside of the dying one. As she entered the room the dying woman looked at her with eyes of terror, and grasping her hand she exclaimed, "Oh stay with me till I am gone! I am dying and am going to hell! Tell Bro. C. (the minister) to preach here as he has never preached it before, for I am going to hell!" Then pointing to the wardrobe she said, "Go there and you will see what has ruined my soul." She opened the door and saw the rich, fashionable clothing and turned again to the side of the dying woman, who raised herself up and sang the hymn she had so often heard at the meeting:

Parting to meet again at the judgment,
Parting to meet no more here below,
Oh, how sad the thought of thee,
Traveler to eternity? 17-4t

Parting to meet again at the judgment.
As the last word fell from her lips she fell back on the pillow and her soul passed into eternity to meet the God whose mercy she had trifled away with, gaudy toys of this earth. Dear reader, take warning from this sad death. Turn away from the vanities of earth and give God your heart and life's service, and eternal happiness shall be yours.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulators relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since."—A. E. Davis, grocer, Sulphur Springs, Tex. 17-4t

In an opinion considered by the full bench, the Court of Appeals held that the $1,000,000 of bonds and the mortgage upon the plant of the Louisville Water Company, issued of which was authorized by the act of the last General Assembly, creating the Board of Waterworks, are not invalidated by the failure to submit the question of their being issued to a vote of the people.

An Appeal for the Children

A touching appeal is being sent out by the Kentucky Children's Home Society of Louisville, for a generous Thanksgiving remembrance. This is a long-established custom of the society, which usually meets with a generous response. This year, however, on account of the recent political campaign and other counter-claims, the society finds itself sorely in need of funds. The expense of accomplishing the rapidly-expanding work and of fulfilling its full duty to the great mass of destitute children of the State, is being greater, and unless the public comes to the aid of the institution the work will be greatly hampered this year. Destitute children are coming to the care of the society at the rate of more than a hundred a month, and the expense is necessarily great. The society is being asked on every hand to take charge of the orphans and abandoned children from every county in Kentucky, and its policy is not to turn a deaf ear to these entreaties. To continue this work it is necessary to call upon the public for a generous response to this Thanksgiving appeal.

Help to purify your town and county.

Calab Power received a vote for Congress in the Eleventh District. Well?

The farmers and tobacco growers of Montgomery county in session here last week showed a determination not to yield to the money powers that had heretofore named the prices of their productions.

The Farmers of this State are organizing and will name the prices on their commodities at a price that carries with it a reasonable profit.

The Court of Appeals has affirmed judgment of the Clark Circuit Court in the case of B. Felt French against the Commonwealth in which French was found guilty of contempt of Court and fined $5,000. The opinion of the Court was delivered by Judge Settle, the whole court sitting. The court also affirmed judgment of the same court finding Felix Feltner $3,000 and sentencing him to two years in the Clark county jail.

Whether or not Montgomery county is to be a place where people will seek homes or desire to continue, as residents depends partially on the enforcement of law. This rests with the persons who know of violations and are willing to testify before grand juries, and with the juries who are to see that violators are punished. We are told that it is surprising to know how many men are lured or ignorantly when they are brought before grand juries.

WISDOM.

Governor Beckham will meet the favor of all men in the caution used relative to calling the legislature together for the purpose of enacting laws by which the observance of the Christian Sabbath will become strict. Such caution is wise, for should the legislature assemble and continue in session for days without enacting the needed laws it would entail an expense on our people of $1000 per day. It is therefore expedient that the representatives be interviewed on the subject of the call in advance.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving day. It is a time honored custom for many of our people to suspend a business and on benedict knees, and uncovered head give praise to Him the source of bountiful supplies, joys, comforts, and peace, for the innumerable blessings granted during the year past, and to extend His guiding hand for the future. For loving kindness for joys, love, peace, happiness and plenty. The people of Montgomery owe much, and one day out of three hundred and sixty-five is a very little time in which to render thanks and give praise.

We would thank The O. God, for what thou has done for us and would praise thee as thou leadest thy people successful against wickedness and depravity in all its iniquitous forms.

It is the hardest blow the saloons in any large Southern city have ever sustained.

Nervous Worn-Out

If you are in this condition, your nerve force is weak—the power is giving out, the organs of your body have "slowed up," and do their work imperfectly. This failure to do the work required, clogs the system and brings distress and disease. When the nerves are weak the heart is unable to force the life-giving blood through your veins; the stomach fails to digest food; the kidneys lack power to filter impurities from the blood, and the poisonous waste remains in the system to breed disease. Nerve energy must be restored. Dr. Miles' Nerve Tonic will do it, because it strengthens the nerves; it is a nerve medicine and tonic, that rebuilds the entire nervous system.

"Several years ago I was laid low. I was nervous, worn-out, could not sleep, and was in constant pain. I doctored for months, and finally the doctor said he could do nothing for me. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve Tonic, and used altogether eight bottles, and I became strong and healthy, and now weigh 170 pounds."—H. C. C.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS.

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Mt. Sterling Citizen Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness, when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys.

Samuel Rice, the brick manufacturer who lives on Second St., Richmond, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are without doubt the most wonderful kidney remedy in the world, and you may use my name as a reference. Until I tried them I was a continual sufferer from kidney disorders and weaknesses, accompanied with severe backaches. I happened to read one of the advertisements for the remedy and was influenced thereby to buy a box. The results were entirely satisfactory."

Another Thanksgiving.

What do you think we're going to have in our own little Misses' Banquet? Another Thanksgiving? Miss Blanche says—No! 'Planned it all out'—understand it isn't the end of the Festival makes. Nor the last one, nor any more. If it was they'd make the other kind. With roast turkey in the plan. But this Thanksgiving is different. There's a lot of people you know—They're the same bladders we hear so much about. Who must have something and things. Because we have so many good things. Miss Blanche says we ought to divide; We'll show our thankfulness in that way. And do lots of good things. We'll give to earn our money—Thank-offerings? did you say? But, mamma, they mean the very same thing. And we'll be Thanksgiving Day!

About Coughs.

Some Reliable Local Advice.

"In conducting a large drug business we naturally meet a great many people at this season of the year who suffer from coughs, colds and bronchial troubles.

"As these troubles are easily controlled if the right means are taken to cure them, we want to say to the people of Mt. Sterling that we guarantee our cod liver preparation, Vinol, will cure hanging-on-colds, stubborn coughs, bronchial and lung troubles quicker than any preparation we ever have sold.

"This is because Vinol contains no oil or grease to clog the system and upset the stomach; yet it does contain every one of the fifty odd medicinal curative elements actually taken from fresh cod's livers, with tonic iron added. Vinol is not a patent medicine; and you know what you are taking so without reservation we recommend Vinol to cure coughs, colds and bronchial troubles, increase the appetite, build up the run down, tired and debilitated, and create strength and renewed vitality for the aged.

"If Vinol fails to do what we say we will refund every dollar paid for it." W. S. Lloyd, Druggist.

NOTE.—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Mt. Sterling, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

Langley's Majority.

The majority for Mr. Langley for Congress is 918.

Intoxication while on duty is a misdemeanor for a railroad employ in California, and if death results a felony.

When in need of a birthday or wedding present see Robinson's stock. 11-1f.

The Flemingsburg Times-Democrat wants the game wardens to go after the Ohio sportsman who are hunting in that county without license.

James Gullenstein sold seven hogheads of bright lard tobacco on the Cincinnati market last week at an average of $20.25 per hundred pounds.

The six-year-old daughter of James Cannon, of Hopkinsville, died from the effects of drinking whisky. She found a four-ounce bottle and drained it of its contents.

Deputy Sheriff A. S. Thompson of Bourbon paid over to the State Treasury at Frankfort over $65,000 for taxes collected for 1906. Ten men in the county pay taxes on over $70,000.

Congressman elect John W. Langley has appointed Fred A. Vaughn, of Paintsville, his private secretary. Roy Willott, of Pikeville, who was tipped for this place will receive an appointment more in keeping with his profession.

By a decision of the Court of Appeals the L. & N. railroad is compelled to deliver live stock, shipped over said road, to the Central Stock Yards at Louisville. This decision will greatly enhance the stock in the Stock Yards Company as it will also add greatly to the business of the company.

Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale my farm of 119 acres, lying on the Levee pipe 5 miles from town; all in grass except 17 acres, well improved, having a good dwelling house of 9 rooms; a new stock barn, and all necessary out buildings, also a good store house, a large warehouse, stock scales and vernal. An abundant supply of stock water and several never-failing springs, one of which is white sulphur, enclosed with wire fence with new locust posts. I will sell cheap on liberal terms.

SHAKE THE FRIEND OF MAN.

He Helps to Keep Down Pests That Destroy Grain and Crops.

Many stories are told of black-snakes that have attacked human beings and a full grown specimen might conceivably suffocate a weak, small child. Even at its greatest development this snake is incapable of doing more than cause an unpleasant constriction of the muscles of a grown person, and the tales of its attacks on men and women ending in serious consequences to anything except itself may be put down as imaginary.

The copperhead is venomous. It belongs to the rattlesnake family, is sluggish in its movements, principally nocturnal in its habits, seeking by day to avoid notice. It will not bite unless greatly annoyed or provoked, and the popular theory that it lies in wait to strike human beings from behind is entirely without foundation.

Recently a New Jersey man boastfully attempted to "charm" a copperhead and was stung by it. Usually a victim are those who unintentionally disturb it while they are hunting for holes or stones in the woods or while clearing swamp land.

Each of these snakes performs a valuable service to man in destroying small pests, such as moles and mice. The blacksnake eats the garter snake and the copperhead and rattlesnake, following their trails by scent, avoiding their poison fangs and crushing them to death. It is also a famous tree climber and a notorious robber of birds' nests. The blacksnake may be tamed. The copperhead also eats the garter snake, which is the prey of many birds and mammals.

The garter snake is among the most courageous of serpents. Notwithstanding its diminutive size, it shows small fear of man, though incapable of injuring him, and its strength and agility make it a frequently victorious opponent of many animals greatly exceeding it in bulk. It is most prolific, a single female producing from 25 to 75 young at a time.

While the fostering of even the small and nonpoisonous serpents is not likely to become popular, they are of great value to the farmer in keeping down harmful animals to combat which on a large scale no cheap and effective means has been found.

The harm they do is limited to the destruction of birds, but in the warfare for existence that continues throughout the life of all animals the birds are not without means of offense and defense. Were snakes the only enemies the winged tribes had to fear, there would be no need of passing laws for their protection.

FALLACIOUS FILTERS.

What can we do in the private house to stop the entrance of the disease germ, provided we believe danger exists? The sanitary experts say that no small filter which allows a good stream of water to pass removes bacteria. In the sale of such filters and the belief in their efficiency, says Hollis Godfrey, in the Atlantic, lies peril to the public, which so often believes that a couple of inches of sand or charcoal preserves them from all harm. As a matter of fact, expert engineers are practically agreed that 18 inches of sand above drains, and that well covered with the sediment filter, are necessary to obtain efficiency. Some of the larger household filters are efficient when filled with fine filtering matters, such as sand stone and incense earth, which only allow water to pass drop by drop. These are usually provided with either storage reservoirs or joined in a series of filters so that a quantity may be obtained at once despite the slow rate of filtration. One simple safeguard is always at hand, and never should be forgotten—the boiling of the drinking water. No precaution is better in time of epidemics.

Worse.
"When! It's getting late, boys," said Peckham, at the club. "I'll have to be going. My wife expects me home before midnight."
"Oh! she's a fighter, eh?" sneered Lushman; "afraid she'd go for you if you stayed out late?"
"No," 'frs'd said she'd come for me."

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, debilitated, nervous, "run-down," painful women. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomachs, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections whether of the stomach, bowels, or kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchitis, or other mucous membranes, as well as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honesty in the full list of ingredients composing it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is the best guaranty of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent nor secret medicines for they are neither—being of common composition.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines bare before them, because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases which they alone upon Dr. Pierce's recommendation as to the curative value of his medicines for certain daily recognized diseases.

A place at the printed formula on each bottle will tell you all about it and no harmful or habit-forming drug enters into it. These are safe and sound for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. These are safe and sound for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. LESSON FOR THE BOYS.
Seems Simple, But Will Make Them Sit Up and Think.
Tell your youngster the celebrated story of the wise man of Persia who, being asked by the shah to name a present for himself, said his wants were so simple that he would be willing to accept grains of corn in compensation for all he had done for his royal master and the state. "Have the grains placed on a checkerboard," he said, "one on the first square, two on the second, four on the third, eight on the fourth, and keep on doubling until each of the 64 squares have been covered." The shah smiled, and hinted to his prime minister that the wise man must be humored, as he was a silly old thing. So the grains of corn were brought—about a pint; and one of the slaves was set to work filling the squares. Before 16 squares were filled the shah and his court began to be amazed. Great mathematicians were summoned to do the counting, and corn was brought in by the wagon load. By and by it threatened to fill the palace, then the palace grounds, then the city, then the whole of the shah's dominions, and a halt had to be called.
This yarn will set your boy thinking. If he has been naughty, say that you are going to punish him by allowing him to fill up the squares of the checkerboard with rice or mustard seed, and when the job is finished he may go play. See him laugh at you for the celebrity with which he will finish the task and be out with his corn. Then watch the lengthening of his countenance as he gets up to counting the first 1,000 grains. When the utter hopelessness of the job dawns upon him you relent, and he has learned a useful lesson. No child on earth will believe at first in the veracity of a father who tells him it would occupy a lifetime many times over to count out the grains for the 64 squares. He gives the merry ha!

Schnapps Tobacco is Made ENTIRELY from Flue Cured Tobacco Grown in the Piedmont Country.
The Imitation Brands Have Schnapps Quality Only On the Outside Of the Plug

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps tobacco. The outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured the same as Schnapps, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco. One chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco. The color, size and shape of the tags, plugs and packages of certain imitation brands of tobacco have been made so much like Schnapps that they have often been accepted by buyers under the belief that they were getting Schnapps.
Sufficient proof has been secured to establish the fact that certain brands are infringements and in violation of the trade mark laws, yet the trade will continue to be imposed upon by these infringers until the suit already entered and now pending to protect Schnapps is decided. A great many of these imitations are claimed to be "just as good" as Schnapps, but there is only one genuine Schnapps. Be sure the letters on the tag, and stamped on the plug under the tag spell S-C-H-N-A-P-P-S and then you have it—the most wholesome tobacco produced, with just enough sweetening to preserve the mild, juicy, stimulating quality of the leaf tobacco. Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers.

If the tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy you more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco.
Schnapps is like the tobacco chewers formerly bought costing from 75c.
to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound, in 5c. cuts, strictly 10c. and 15c. plugs.

GUARD YOUR HEALTH

AVOID ALUM

Vigorous Health is the most Dependable Wealth (possess).
It reaps a steady harvest.
Alum in food will change Health's ruddy glow into pinched paleness by drying up the rich red blood, which nature provides.
You take alum into your food by the use of, so called, cheap Powders in which alum is used as a cheapening substitute for pure Cream of Tartar. There is only one sure way to guard your health against alum and its injurious effects—Buy only an absolutely pure Grape Cream of Tartar Baking Powder—buy by the name—

THANKSGIVING DAY

As It was and as It Is--Traced to the Piety of New England Forefathers.

BY REV. Z. GREENE, D. D.

The comparison suggested by this title is made between the old colonial times and these. The custom of an annual day of thanksgiving to God, appointed by the highest civil authority and observed with greater or less fidelity to its declared purpose by all the people, is to be traced here, not to the Jewish feasts of tabernacles, but to the piety of the New England forefathers.

It was not an annual observance at the outset. The first harvest gathered in the new land was followed by a day of Thanksgiving; but not so all harvests. Nor did the governor wait for the harvest-time to come. Nor did he limit himself to proclaiming a single day at thanks in the year. Abundant rains after a trying drought, or the timely arrival of vessels with provisions for the famine-threatened colonists were made occasion of public and united expressions of gratitude to God. If the silence of records is rightly interpreted; it was not until about the beginning of the eighteenth century that the day of thanksgiving became a regular yearly observance. But the annual festival evidently grew out of the occasional appointment.

From the beginning the religious spirit was dominant in colonial affairs. The pilgrims came here for religious purposes. They had a lively sense of God. They had unbounded faith in his providence. He was immediately concerned in all their experiences. To Him they looked for all good. Before they fasted and made confession and sought mercy in adversity, and in prosperity they did not fail to give him praise. In these matters, as in all else, they were very earnest men.

That Governor Bradford's call for a day of thanksgiving was not merely perfunctory, but carried his individual convictions is evident from his character, and is witnessed by the reverential reference to the goodness of God in his fragmentary poem on New England, found among his papers after his death. Here is an extract:

Famine once we had,
But other things God gave us in full store.
As fish and ground-nuts, to supply our straits;
That we might learn on Providence to wait,
And know by bread man lives not in need,

But by each word that doth from God proceed.
But a while after plenty did come in.
From his hand only who doth pardon sin,
And all did flourish like the pleasant green,
Which in the joyful spring is to be seen.
When the appointed day came it was observed with marked unanimity and heartiness. An almost Sabbath sanctity was accorded to it, especially in its earlier hours. Servile labor was omitted. Business was suspended. The church was thronged for a long and absorbing service. High officials were conspicuously present in the sanctuary as participants and not as mere observers.

And the festive element was not wholly wanting. In connection with the first thanksgiving day Governor Bradford sent four men into the woods for game wherewith to make a feast, that, as he said, they "might after a more special manner rejoice together." There is a little touch of nature in the governor's phrase that should not escape attention. He regarded the feast as promoting a rejoicing "after a more special manner." The rejoicing in the church would be, he thought, of a general character—very good, very proper, but somewhat lacking in concreteness, and perhaps not adapted to enlist all natures. But the feast of savory game just from the woods! that would "after a more special manner" appeal to the sensibilities of all men alike, and would quicken in all sensations of gladness which have their source at a lower point in their anatomy than the heart.

We may readily believe that even these sadly earnest men, whose sternness has in all probability been exaggerated in the hard visages that conventional art has given them, were not proof against the softening effects of the feast, nor unbending to the social amenities that would naturally attend upon and follow the pleasures of the table. The controversial writings are streaked with lines of grim humor. They were human. Merry making was not wholly foreign to them, though their gamboling may have been of an elephantine sort. The rose blushed against the granite.

Turning from those times to these, it is plain that changes have come in the observance of the day. The changes have not been so radical, as at first glance, we might be inclined to think nor have they been all for the worse. These changes have come, not by civil or ecclesiastical decree, but in a very natural way indeed. The influences that have conspired to produce these changes are in view. They may be gathered up into a single expression. A vast increase of material possessions without a commensurate religious development. Were it not for the free field Christian truth has had for its own exposition, and were it not for the providential chastisements that from time to time have fallen upon us, it would seem as if by this date we might have lapsed wholly into materialism. As it is Thanksgiving day as it is observed is a suggestive spectacle.

The two elements we have seen in the early Thanksgiving observances, worship and the festival, are still prime factors in the day; but in the common custom the latter has been re-enforced at the expense of the former. At first it was a holy day with a holiday flavor; now it is a holiday with a holy-day name. The annex has become the main building. The intrinsic and the extrinsic have changed places. The feast and

The first thing that strikes you when you enter a room is the smell of the turkey. It is a day of unusual festivity, a day of unusual merriment. Many families assume that jollity and gratitude are synonyms on Thanksgiving day, and deceive themselves into the fancy that they are grateful, when they are only grateful.

A still wider divergence from the early observance of the day appears in a very common perversion of it to sporting purposes. "Sport" has late years obtained an entrance and standing within the margin of so-called respectability, greatly to the damage of the popular taste; and of all the holidays of the year, Thanksgiving day has been invaded by its dehumanizing pastimes and excitements. In the cities and larger towns the game of football, with its fierce rivalries and its rough, and often brutal, methods, and in rural places the shooting-match, in which pigeons and turkeys are mutilated for the display of the marksman's skill—are in evidence as to the gross misuse of the day. More and more than perversions, they are positively hostile to the kindly spirit that the day is fitted to express and promote.

It is well to reflect, however, that the true spirit of the day has not been wholly lost, and that comparing the festival of this year with that of 250 years ago, there are some things upon which we may well congratulate ourselves. Notice this, that the observance of the day has survived the separation of church and state—a fact that the men who banished Roger Williams would have scouted as impossible. Notice further, that since the time of the civil war, and as part of the outcome of it, the annual Thanksgiving has expanded from a sectional to a national observance. Now, as at the first, the proclamation of the chief magistrate, naming the day and the reason for it, voices the best thought of the masses of the people, who approve of the appointment more generally than they keep it—for sentiments and convictions are always in advance of actions. It is a very telling thing that once a year the highest official in the land should, with the approval of the people, make formal declaration of a personal God who is directly concerned in the welfare of men and who accepts their thanks for his favors. And though only a meager fraction of the populace is to be found in the places where thanks are rendered, even when in order to make a respectable gathering fragments of several congregations combine under the pleasant name of a "union service," it is still a fact of large import that there are persons not a few who by the fireside and in the house of God do most sincerely and devoutly fulfill the intention of the day.

Two beautiful features of the Thanksgiving anniversary not entirely unknown to the forefathers, yet not highly developed among them, are coming into increased and increasing prominence, namely, the family reunion and the remembrance of the poor. There is no other day in the year when the institution of the family may so fittingly be made the subject of united and fervent expressions of gratitude to God—no other day so well adapted for a common celebration of domestic joys and affections. The place that the home holds in the social life of America gives it distinct eminence among the blessings for which thanks are to be tendered—blessings revived and sampled afresh in the midst of the praises. "The scattered members of the household return or send greetings to those who are there, and the family ties are strengthened by the cordials of love and unity. As a result of this, the Thanksgiving day is a day of spontaneous joy, and of spontaneous thanksgiving. It is a day of thanksgiving for the many blessings that are ours, and for the many blessings that are yet to come. It is a day of thanksgiving for the many blessings that are ours, and for the many blessings that are yet to come.

Thus it appears that while Thanksgiving day as it is, is in some significant way behind Thanksgiving day as it was, in other respects it is in advance of the earliest observances.

It remains for all who believe in God to stand for all that is best in the day, and to demonstrate in the home and in the sanctuary that they are at one with the Psalmist when he says, "It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord."

An Aged Sufferer Cured of Catarrh.

The Kentucky Remedy Co., Lexington, Ky.

Gentlemen:—For the last seventeen years I have suffered from an aggravated case of catarrh in my head, for which I could find no permanent relief. My hearing was badly impaired, there was a constant dripping of mucus in my throat and a nauseated feeling. I had frequent dizzy spells, and flushes of fever. There was hardly a time, day or night, when I was free from headache or pains in some part of my body. My digestion was failing me and my kidneys were affected. They said I had rheumatism. I was troubled with constant run-off of the bowels and got no satisfaction from what I ate. My daughters thought that on account of my old age I would never find relief, but as a last resort, I commenced to use Dr. Andes' Great Prescription, and thank God! after taking only two bottles, I can say that I am a well woman. Every symptom of my former trouble has disappeared, and I feel ten years younger. I eat and sleep as well as any thanks to this wonderful medicine. Though sixty-seven years old, I believe I am good for many more before I die.
